

TWO ARTISTS

ILYA TINFO

"some people always want to know... what is that about? what does it mean? what i make, what i create, is about me. it's abut my response to the world around me. its about transformation. change. it's about movement, color, form, texture. it's about music. it's about nature. life. love. struggle. fear. death. feeling. it's about spirit. magic. mystery. it's about seeing. it's about discovery.

my process is usually one of exploration. one thing leading to another. things are created and built upon. when i start i have no idea what the finished product will look like. much of my work deals with recycled objects. making something new from something old.

i am very eclectic, and work in many styles, having a wide range of interests and influences, from the surrealist to the "Old Masters," whom i consider the best. what they did with paint and brush is truly magical.

i respect and admire many artists, many styles. and yet i do what i do. it means everything. it means nothing."

Photo: Deirdre Lamb

